

The Senate by a vote of fifty to thirty-two has postponed further consideration of the Baily income tax amendment, says our Washington correspondent, until June 10, while Senator Aldrich has given notice that if the time is not then opportune he will move for a further postponement. Opinion is divided as to the wisdom of Mr. Bailey's course in pressing his amendment at this time. The Republicans advocates of an income tax headed by Senator Cummins, of Iowa, are unopposedly opposed to forcing a test vote at this time, being convinced that to do so would bring out a showing against the income tax proposition wholly disproportionate to the opposition to that tax per se. They realized the force of the argument put forth by Mr. Aldrich and his associates, that it was distinctly irregular to interrupt the consideration of the tariff schedules to vote on an excise tax. Mr. Bailey on the other hand maintained that if a vote on his amendment were postponed until all the schedules had been adjusted the rates of duty would have been placed so high that the revenue to be produced by an income tax would seem superfluous, and that, therefore, its rejection would be insured by postponement. The result of the vote demonstrated the correctness of Mr. Cummins's contention. By forcing a vote on the question, Mr. Bailey alienated practically all of his Republican support.

Those close to President Taft on the reviewing stand had a good opportunity to observe how closely the President is guarded. His aide, Mayor Butt, was constantly at his back. There were two men of the secret service who were never three feet from his side. Inconspicuous men they were, but never were two men more alert. They saw and took a mental photograph of everybody who entered the presidential box; they were alert to every unusual movement of the crowd. If a man stood with hands in his pockets anywhere in the vicinity of the president, they would brush against him and knock his hands free. Silent men they were, too, intent upon one thing only—the outlook for any sign or manifestation of trouble for the President. And each of them carried a gun 18 inches long under the tail of his frock coat.—Lenoir News.

The work of restoring the name of former Secretary of War Jefferson Davis to the tablet on Cabin John Bridge had been completed. The restoration of the name of the first and only President of the Confederacy marks the triumph of the persistent efforts of the people of the South to remedy what they considered a blot on the memory of President Davis. No ceremonies marked either the beginning of the work of restoration on April 17 or its conclusion. It is expected, however, that the G. A. R. organizations of Washington will, at a suggestion from the office of the Secretary of War, arrange for some ceremony to be held at the bridge on Democratic Day.—Anderson, S. C., Mail.

On the 28th ult. The Chatham Manufacturing Company of Elkhart, N. C. shipped 18 solid car loads of Blankets to different parts of the United States, half of them going to Chicago and St. Louis from which places they will be distributed, to different places on the Pacific slope. The blankets are of Philadelphia. The price of the blankets is $79,200. The company is now preparing for shipment.

That Railroad Prospect.

Having noticed a few articles in your valuable paper relative to the railroad prospects, I desire in its interest and the interest of all our people to say a few words.

Our people generally, in this part of the county, are against voting any bonds or taxes should the proposition fall short of going through the county. There would be, conservatively speaking, at least 90 per cent. of our people against it, but if it could be so fixed that the road is certain, according to the proposition, to go through, then by close and hard work to carry the bonds, it might be done.

But as to Prof. I. G. Greer's opinion about our people west of Boone being united and solid for the road, even if we should fail to get it through the county, is altogether a mistake, as will be seen at the polls if it stops short of a through line.

I only write this so that all interested, as we all are, may be informed about the situation before the proposition is submitted.

To the Baptist Churches of Watauga.

At the recent session of the Watauga Sunday School Convention, some of the churches sent in statistics and some money to pay for printing minutes of the Convention while others did not.

Now I ask each church that did not send in report and contribution, to please send in at once so we may have a full minute printed.

Please report number of quarterlies and papers used, amount paid for them, contributions for orphanage, missions, etc., giving name of superintendent and secretary, number of enrollment, average attendance, etc., with 20 to 30 cents to pay for minutes.

Please do not fail to do this, so that we may have a nice, complete minute. Pastors, please help us. Mail your report and minute fund before July 1, to G. W. GRAGG, Sec., Rutherfordwood, N. C.

A Shelby special of the 28th to the Charlotte Observer, says that Rev. Baylus Cade, well known throughout the State and now located at Boiling Springs, this county, claims to have solved the type-setting problem for the country weekly. He has secured a patent on a type-setting machine, modeled somewhat after the style of the regular linotype which he claims will revolutionize type-setting and greatly reduce the cost thereof. He leaves this week for Philadelphia, having received several offers from parties North build his machines. When complete these machines will be sold at $500. The inventor is a practical newspaperman with a decisive inventive turn of mind.

Says the Lenoir News: Sheriff Smith received a telegram Saturday that Robert Pritchard has been arrested in Lowden county, Tennessee. The Sheriff left Monday and will return about Wednesday with Pritchard. Bob and Keith Pritchard are the men who are charged with killing the brother-in-law, Honeycutt, and wounding Deputy Sheriff Garland several months ago near Mortimer.

Bradley Parker, a merchant of Parkersburg, Sampson county was recently shot and instantly killed by rural mail carrier, Bass because he refused to sell a box of cartridges to Bass, who said he intended to kill another man. Parker tried to dissuade him and refused to open the store to get the cartridges, where upon Bass drew a revolver and shot him down. Bass was arrested and jailed.

In Memory of Mrs. Emma Miller.

Mrs. Miller, the daughter of Nelson Adams, a Watauga Veteran who gave his life in the great civil war, was born June 16th, 1861, and died May 18th, 1909.

She was married early in life to Mr. W. H. Miller. She professed faith in Christ more than twenty-five years ago and united with the M. E. Church and lived a devoted christian, a kind, loving companion and mother.

She leaves a husband, eight children and a host of friends to mourn her departure. Her body rests in the little cemetery on Cedar creek, near Russellville Tenn., to await the trumpet call at the coming of Him who said: "I go to prepare a place for you, and I'll go and prepare a place for you, I will come again and receive you unto myself, that where I am there you may be also."

TRADE MARK

LONG WEAR SHOES

CRADDOCK TERRY CO.

"LONGWEAR SHOES WEAR LONGER."

We have just received a big stock of the celebrated Craddock-Terry shoes known over the entire country as one of the best lines of goods manufactured. These goods are made in the South by its largest manufacturers and are not only sold here but are being bought in the large cities of the north in competition with Northern made goods. This line of shoes received two medals at the Worlds Exposition the only manufacturers to receive but one. Be sure to try a pair of these goods and you will use no other. "The best is the cheapest."

Your attention is also again called to my splendid line of clothing for men, youths and boys. They are of the best material, the best make, and are being sold at the best prices to be found in this section of the county. If you have not bought your summer suit, be sure and investigate my stock, at least, before purchasing. Dry Goods, Notions, Hardware, Groceries, etc., always in stock, and at bargain prices. Bring me your trade, and I will save you money.

Very respectfully,

H. C. MILLER, Blowing Rock, N. C.
